DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ching-Chen (US PUB 2003/0236045). '045 discloses a scrubber mesh material (10) comprised of wrinkled or crimped strands or wires (12,13) and further wherein the material can be formed into sheet, sphere or glove (paragraph 0022). Furthermore, refer to paragraphs 0005, 0019 and 0021, which use the term "irregular" to describe the crimped sections. Also see figures 3 and 5, which shows that the wave of the yarns (12) is irregular.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 12 June 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. This case comes down to the term "irregular". If one were to define the term as a deviation from the admitted prior art, one could merely interpret the term as requiring that the strands are not straight. Even if one were to define this term a little narrower, '045 frequently uses the term irregular to describe the crimped sections (paragraphs 0005, 0019 and 0021). In addition, figures 3 and 5 show that the blank material (10) is crimped (by the method of figure 4) such that the strands (the strands 12 being shown in figure 3) have an irregular wrinkle. As such, it is felt that '045 discloses the present invention to the extent that it is defined in the claims. With regard to claim 2, the examiner has not ignored the recitation of a "bathing ball". As far as I know, a sphere (paragraph 0022, line 4) is a ball.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
